COLLABORATIVE & INTEGRATIVE INTERDISCIPLINARY SCHOLARSHIP

International

- Collaboration with: Dr. Ingeborg Nilsson, Occupational Therapy Department, Umea University, Sweden.
 - Nature of collaboration: Research: How do everyday people categorize their occupations? The aims of this work includes: (1) development of occupational categories for an outcome measure of occupational experience, and (2) advancement of cross-culture views of occupation through publications. Ongoing data analysis of US and Sweden data.
 - Outcomes: (1) Received Travel Grant from Från Strategic Research Grant in Caring Science (SFO-V) to continue to support our collaborative data analysis and writing in 2017; (2) USA data analysis resulted in occupational categories added to the Occupational Experience Profile (formerly the PPR Profile) to allow users to categorize their own occupations, (3) 1 manuscript based on the US data is being revised for resubmission 2018, and (4) 1 manuscript based on the Sweden data is being written.

- Collaboration with Clarissa Sorlie and Mary Cowan, Occupational Therapy Department at Bethlem Royal Hospital, South London and Maudsley NHS Foundation, London, United Kingdom
 - Nature of collaboration: Practice and Program Evaluation; Evaluation of the utility of incorporating the Daily Experience of Pleasure, Productivity, and Restoration Profile into an eating disorders day program. Next steps: expansion of the usage of the PPR Profile in other settings and behavioral health populations and more formalized research.
 - Outcomes: (1) Approval from Bethlem Royal Hospital; IRB to share summarized data under an agreement related to program evaluation; (2) Proposals submitted to national conferences in 2015 and 2016, not accepted, and (3) Publication under review at Mental Health Review Journal. (submitted 2018, Feb).

- Collaboration with Ann-Helen Patomella and other members of the Make My Day Study, Occupational Therapy, Institute for Neurobiology, Karolinska Institutet, Sweden.
 - Nature of collaboration: Research: Use of the Daily Experience of Pleasure, Productivity, and Restoration Profile into a pilot grant "Make My Day" to prevent stroke. Currently working on development of international MOU.

- Outcomes: (1) The PPR Profile has been translated into Swedish, and (2) Data collection using the paper version of the PPR Profile underway, Spring 2018.

National

- Collaboration with: Adele Breen-Franklin, OTD, Department of Occupational Therapy, Samson College of Health Sciences, Philadelphia, PA
 - Nature of collaboration: Education and Research; Exploration of the effectiveness of using an occupational therapy assessment (OEProfile), and goal and plan development to promote students' understanding of occupation and related concepts. Next steps: data analysis, conference proposal submission and manuscript preparation.
 - Outcomes: (1) IRB approved through USciences and CSU for study; (2) Training of use of the OEProfile completed, (3) Data collection completed in Spring 2018, and (4) Proposal to present at the American Occupational Therapy Conference in Spring 2019 is being written. Data analysis will be summer 2018.
- Collaboration with: Dr. Marken and Julia Westfall, Occupational Therapy Department, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, KY.
 - Nature of collaboration: Education and Research Integration of PPR Profile into a graduate Occupational Science course to provide students experiential learning opportunity with an occupation focused assessment. Research on the daily activity and experiential patterns of custodial grandparents.
 - Outcomes: (1) Publication accepted 2017 in Physical and Occupational Therapy in Geriatrics.

Community

- Collaboration with: Linda Crawford, OTR, L, Brave Chronic Pain Therapy, Greenwood Village, CO.
 - Nature of collaboration: Practice and Continuing Education; Integration of the use of the PPR Profile in private practice. Development of Pain Rehabilitation workshop.
 - Outcomes: (1) Proposals submitted to national conferences in 2015 and 2016, not accepted; (2) Field Test of Chronic Pain Rehabilitation provided to local occupational therapists and occupational therapy students (approx. 15). AOTA Pre-conference Institute April 2018.
- Collaboration with: Bailey LeBoeuf, OTR/L and AllHealth Network, behavioral health and mental health services, Littleton, CO
 - Nature of collaboration: Research and Education. Inclusion of research into Level II Fieldwork experience; Utility of the PPR Profile with behavioral health population to promote meaningful occupation. Next steps: completion of student thesis, manuscript submissions.
 - Outcomes: (1) Data collection completed, summer 2017, and (2) Data analysis underway for student thesis, fall 2018.
- Collaboration with: Dr. Malcolm & Dr. Schmid from the Occupational Therapy Department with Family Medicine Center affiliated with University of Colorado Health.
 - Nature of collaboration: TODAY Program: Taking On Diabetes to Advance You
 - Outcomes: (1) 4 articles submitted for publication; 2 currently published and 2 under review; (2) 3 poster presentations and 1 paper presentation accepted for AOTA 2018 Conference; (3) Qualitative data analysis completed and preliminary analysis initiated to help inform OT pilot; (4) OT 1-1 services piloted at UCHHealth with 5 participants- manuscript being planned to report occupational experiences of adults with T2DM; (5) submission of PRSE grant proposal 9/17- not funded, and (6) Preliminary discussions of potential collaborations with Kendall Regan Diabetes Educators, and Extension.

Colorado State University

- Collaboration with: Dr. Schmid and Dr. Pergolotti from the Occupational Therapy Department
 - Nature of collaboration: MY Yoga for Cancer
 - Outcomes: (1) Received internal OT department grant to identify physiological, occupational, psychosocial, and environmental fall risk factors for older adults with cancer and to refine Merging Yoga and Occupational Therapy (MY-OT) intervention manual, tailoring it to the needs of older adults with cancer at risk for falling; (2) Data collection underway Spring and Summer 2018.
 - Collaboration with Dr. Fruhauf from the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Colorado State University.
 - Nature collaboration: Bringing together our interests related to experiences associated with everyday activities and caregiver self-care.
 - Outcomes: 2 publications in 2017.
 - Collaboration with Dr. Orsi, Research Scientist, School of Social Work, CSU.
 - Nature of collaboration: Examination of the complexity of the PPR Profile data through se of multiple regression analysis and multilevel modeling.
 - Outcomes: 1 publication in 2015 and 1 publication in 2018.
